			STAMPS; HONORING THE NOVELIST Over a Century Ago The first United States general issue consists of two stamps, a 5-cent most commonly found in a red brown color and a 10-cent black. Authorized by act of Congress on March 3, 1847, the non-mandatory use of stamps to evidence prepayment of postage took effect July 1, 1847. As might be expected, these first United States stamps are avidly sought by collectors. At the time the first stamps went into use, the 5-cent issue met the rate for single letters sent less than 300 miles. The 10-cent rate applied to longer distances. Single letters were those that weighed a half-ounce or less with every additional half-ounce being assessed an additional single rate of postage. If not prepaid, the postage fee was charged to the recipient of the letter. Because the government did not have stamp printing facilities of its own, the work on the first stamps was contracted out to Rawdon, Wright, Hatch and Edson, a New York City company engaged in Bank Note engraving. Production delays ensued and the first stamps were available only in the New York post office on their effective date. Because of this first day scarcity, no covers are known to exist with a July 1, 1847 cancel. Earliest known use of the 10-cent is July 2. The 5-cent has been found with a July 7 earliest known usage. The 5-cent issue features a portrait of Benjamin Franklin, the first Postmaster General of the United States. The stamp was issued without perforations on a thin, bluish wove paper. "The United State Postage Stamps of the 19th Century" by Lester G. Brookman attributes to the late Dr.

The 1847 printings are orange brown, bright orange brown, dark brown and black brown, while the late (1851) printings are deep brownish orange and dark brownish orange. An expert can date the printing of a given example by its color and the sharpness of the printing impression. The Brookman book provides an example of the growth in value of this issue. A rare piece described as a rejoined block of six of the 5-cent 1847 in used condition is noted as having sold in 1966 for $1,159. The same piece, which was rejoined around 1918 when the late Stanley Ashbrook discovered a mate for his vertical strip of three in the collection of Judge Robert Emerson, was last offered at auction in 1982. It realized $32,000 in the Daniel F. Kelleher United States Rare Stamp Collection auction. The 10-cent issue bears George Washington's portrait. The stamp is extremely rare in unused condition, carrying a Scott catalogue value of $18,500. Important usages include the 10-cent bisect on cover, used to meet the 5-cent rate, which catalogues for $15,000 or more. The 10-cent and 5-cent used on the same cover are assigned a catalogue value of $18,500. There are no known dangerous fakes of the 5-cent 1847 issue. Counterfeits of the 10-cent produced by the famous forger Jean de Sperati can be identified by a diagonal line towards the bottom of the left frame line. Fake bisect covers have also been manufactured and are best left to independent experts for detection. Other potential problems exist in the mis-identification of unused 1875 official government reprints as the more valuable 1847 originals and the passing off of used stamps as unused issues after attempts have been made to wash off the cancellation. The reprints are easily identified when compared with known originals. Verification of unused 1847s should be left to experts although close examination of the front and back of a 5-cent may reveal the cancel, usually a pen-manuscripted "X" or diagonal line in the center of the stamp. Because of the black color of the 10-cent stamp, detecting cleaned cancels of this issue is more difficult. With the reduction in postage rates that took effect July 1, 1851, the 1847 issue was demonitized as of that date. In the four	False	By John F. Dunn	1986-01-15	TX 1-740851 years of use, approximately 3,700,000 5-cent stamps and 865,000 10-cent stamps were sold to the public. This compares with the 120,000,000 copies of each commemorative that are sold. As with all early issues in limited supply, condition varies greatly with this issue. Value follows directly. A used 5-cent in top condition with wide margins can sell for $1,000 or more, while a damaged, but collectible copy can be had for as little as $50. The 10-cent used can range from $200 to $2,000 or more. For the budget-minded, attractive reproductions can be found on the 1947 Centenary International Philatelic Exhibition (Cipex) souvenir sheet that has a value of $1.50. The colors are different, but the designs are much the same as the originals.

Nevertheless, said Supervisor Pat V. Angorano, "some homeowners have been pressing for at least two years for the development of a recreational complex." "But the question is," he said, "how many people would be interested in using it, and would user fees make it self-sustaining?" He said a survey was planned "to see how many residents would pay $100 to $300 a year or more" to support what might be an expensive indoor complex, adding that the town could raise the construction costs of up to $3 million through the sale of bonds. "But I would have to see where the income would come from to pay the debt service for those bonds," he said. "I don't feel the income should be coming from the general tax, but from those who would be enjoying the facility." There would be an outcry, he said, "if we decided to spend a substantial amount of money for a relatively few people." Mr. Angorano said the proposal, which originated with a petition by 40 or 50 homeowners, might be feasible if 500 to 600 families indicated a willingness to participate.
